Esteemed experts,

I enjoyed the conversation we had this morning concerning the recent Macondo mud loss event.

I recommend that BP give specialized Lost Circulation Master Class training to the drilling foremen. Perhaps it does not have to be as technical or involved. My reasoning is, quite often the drilling foremen are working with the office team in the decision making process concerning the site and the characterization of the mud losses and in the recommendation of the solution that will be applied. As such I think it would be very beneficial for them to have some training and be allowed to ask questions until they are comfortable with our approach and solutions.

Thanks and best regards,

John
