

Summary of Opinions

- The negative pressure test was not properly understood, but the parties involved allowed the displacement to continue.
- While everyone involved had every incentive to get it right and had no incentive to cut corners, they did not properly interpret the test.