

---

Conclusion

- A massive quantity of high-quality data collected as part of Deepwater Horizon environmental investigation
- The largest environmental investigation of an oil spill ever undertaken
- Data demonstrate no harmful exposure from oil-related chemicals or dispersants in nearly all of the area investigated
- The few areas where there was potentially* harmful exposure to chemicals were limited in space and time, mostly in the area very close to the wellhead during the summer of 2010